FALCON HUNTER

POWER KOEPP

FALCON HUNTER POWER KOEPP

Alexis Badel enjoyed a splendid treble at last week's Happy Valley night meeting, taking his seasonal tally to 10 victories and moving into eighth place in the jockeys' standings. The French rider has consistently maintained a solid record throughout his Hong Kong career and heads into Wednesday's fixture with several promising mounts. Among his strongest prospects are FALCON HUNTER, representing the James Cummings stable, and POWER KOEPP, prepared by Mark Newnham. Both possess genuine winning credentials and could help Badel sustain his excellent momentum with further success.

FALCON HUNTER contests the Class 4 1200m event, having thrived since joining James Cummings' stable this season. Its three outings for the trainer have yielded one victory and two runner-up finishes, underlining its remarkable consistency. Last time out, it scored with consummate ease under apprentice Nichola Yuen. Returning to Class 4 with a significantly lighter weight to carry, FALCON HUNTER no longer requires the benefit of an apprentice's weight allowance, prompting the stable to engage the in-form Badel. With the horse maintaining excellent condition and its new rider enjoying a rich vein of form, the combination looks well placed to secure another victory.

POWER KOEPP lines up in the Class 3 1200m contest, boasting five victories over the course and distance— more than any of its rivals in the field. Following four preparatory outings this season, it has gradually regained the condition that brought it success in the past. The return of Badel to the saddle adds further appeal, as the Frenchman has partnered POWER KOEPP to three of its seven Hong Kong victories, demonstrating his thorough understanding of the horse's racing characteristics. Now in his third season training POWER KOEPP, Mark Newnham has guided it to victory in each of the previous two campaigns. With the trainer's careful preparation complemented by Badel's proven partnership, POWER KOEPP has an excellent opportunity to open its winning account for the season.
